

Synthetic Weather Diaries: Concept and Application to Swiss Weather in 1816

Supplementary Figure

Stefan Brönnimann^{1,2}

¹ Institute of Geography, University of Bern, 3012 Bern, Switzerland

² Oeschger Centre for Climate Change Research, University of Bern, 3012 Bern, Switzerland

Correspondence to: S. Brönnimann (stefan.broenniman@giub.unibe.ch)

Figure S1: Comparison of observations (3 times daily) and synthetic weather diaries (daily) for precipitation in Winterthur (1864 and 1866) Grey shading in the top panel indicates an observation gap.