Figure (a) shows the frequency of eruptions per kyr for Greenland and Antarctica, categorized by magnitude. The bars represent the number of eruptions (N) for each magnitude range. Figure (b) and (c) depict the probability density functions (PDF) for bipolar and unipolar eruptions in Greenland and Antarctica, respectively. Figure (d) and (e) further illustrate the distribution of eruption magnitudes for each region.