

Interactive comment on “Technical Note: How accurate can stalagmite formation temperatures be determined using vapour bubble radius measurements in fluid inclusions?” by F. Spadin et al.

E. Brook (Editor)

brooke@geo.oregonstate.edu

Received and published: 1 February 2015

My apologies to the authors for the length of time it has taken to complete the initial review process for this paper. The reviews are thorough and raise good, constructive criticism, and I encourage the authors to address the reviewer comments in a revised manuscript. Although there are a number of points to address it seems to me that the revision should be relatively straightforward.

---

Interactive comment on Clim. Past Discuss., 10, 3689, 2014.

C2281