Thank you for your comments. These comments are helpful for revising and improving our manuscript. On the part of the uncertainties of the data sets and the statistical significance level of the results, we will elaborate in the revision manuscript. Besides, wars are indeed affected by many complex factors. So the impact of other factors on the ethnic wars needs to be further analyzed. As for implementing some statistical analyses on the historical data (population, economy and productivity) and evaluating the importance of climate change in the war relations, now it is very difficult to implement these two parts. I hope you will be satisfied with the revised version, however, if there is more question, we are willing to revise it again. Once again, thank you for your comments.
