Thank you for the kind comments and the generally positive view of the paper.

Of course, all typos and suggestions regarding the redaction of the paper will be taken into account in the revised version of the paper.

The bibliography references suggested by the reviewer will be checked out, and taken into account to enrich the discussion of the results.

Regarding the main point of the reviewer, the discussion of the large-scale field in summer precipitation, it will be improved in the next version of the paper. However this will take a deeper analysis, and we can not give a complete answer on the expected results at this moment.
