

Interactive comment on “A model comparison study for the Antarctic region: present and past” by M. N. A. Maris et al.

M.N.A. Maris

m.n.a.maris@uu.nl

Received and published: 29 November 2011

It is true that the Law Dome temperatures are miscalculated in this paper, thanks to Mr van Ommen for pointing this out. The calibration of 0.44 permille/K in van Ommen et al. (2004) was misread for 0.44 K/permille. The other temperatures in the tables have been checked again and are correct. Although the results have been slightly changed, the final conclusions remain the same.

---

Interactive comment on Clim. Past Discuss., 7, 3583, 2011.