Dear authors,

I have now received the two reviews I expected for your manuscript. Both are very positive and suggest your work to be published with minor revisions. However, both point to additional records that you make your review more complete and ask for a documentation of the uncertainty of the reconstructions. The second reviewer also suggests discussing proxies of seasonal information, which would indeed be interesting, if possible.

I therefore recommend you submit a revised version of your manuscript taking the comments from the reviewers into account and I am looking forward to this manuscript and your responses. I would greatly appreciate if you could track the changes in the revised version. Thank you very much for your efforts.
