I thank the reviewers for their careful and constructive reviews and the authors for diligently attending to the matters raised in their reponse.

I find the author responses to be most satisfactory and I look forward to seeing a final revised paper.

I note the comments of reviewer 2 about the readability/complexity of the manuscript and expect that the authors responses point to improvements in the revision. The paper has a lot in it, and while this leads to some necessary complexity I urge the authors to keep in mind the challenge of clarity, especially as the wider review comments are
