First of all, we would like to thank the anonymous referee #1 for his/her comments and suggestions. We agree with his/her last statement (language aspects) and, as suggested, the manuscript was submitted to a professional grammatical and spelling revision, under the service offered by the Elsevier Office. As non-native speakers some difficulties can appear while writing in English. We are sure that the revised version of our manuscript has reached the language standard requested by Climate of the Past. About the quality of the data, we have not modified the information provided by the authors in each paper used in the compilation. Thus we developed an index to evaluate the age models and resolution of each record, at least to have arguments to compare the data with one another.
