Dear Laura,

We have now received the comments of the referees. Both reviews underline the high interest of your results and recommend their publication.

However, even if reviewers are very positive about your paper, they recommend revisions before publication in Climate of the Past and they provide comments with interesting suggestions about your manuscript which have to be precisely considered when preparing your revised manuscript. In particular, a special attention must be paid on the integration of the archeological context in the paper as requested by referee 4.

Please, take carefully into account all the referee’s comments and suggestions and
