We appreciate the positive reaction to our Technical Note. We support the strategies and perspectives used to create the palaeo-sea-level and palaeo-ice-sheet databases, as articulated in a recent contribution to this journal (<http://www.clim-past.net/12/911/2016/>). Among other salient points, that paper highlighted the importance of crediting data generators. We see data citations as an important development in this regard, and a major element of the data policy we put into practice with the PAGES 2k Special Issue.
