The discussion period for this paper is nearly complete. You have two substantial reviews. When the discussion period is over, please post author comments responding to each comment made by the two reviewers and indicate how you would change the manuscript to address them. I will then be asked to give an editorial decision to let you know whether you are encouraged to submit a revised version. Although reviewer one is brief, they do ask for rather substantial changes before they feel they can evaluate the paper. So please do consider this - most likely the paper will need to be peer-reviewed again when you submit a new version.
