This is just a brief introduction to a special issue linked to the PAGES working group focused on the last 2000 years and it describes 1) the relevance of that period, the history and endeavor of the group 2) the papers to be discussed in such issue. The note is clear on both aspects and seems ready to publish to me. Just, and not sure whether this is accepted by the journal, it would be enhanced by a figure indicating the location, time record and some hints as proxies and resolution of each of the contributions. These are the kind of visualization that make a simple introduction to have more impact among the community.
